Z. C. M. I. VICTIMS
IN USUAL FARCE

That "lucky seventh" inning played a very prominent part in the game between Gimlin's state league champions and the Z. C. M. I. club of Salt Lake yesterday afternoon when the locals, coming from behind what looked like a winning lead of three runs, spilled seven counts over the plate and came home easy winners by a 12 to 7 count.

The ribbon counter lads looked mighty easy to Gimlin's men in view of countless victories over clubs which could not do the Co-operatives alive and consequently they went into the game with about the same attitude that they would go out to an afternoon practice. Of course the chances were very much against the visitors but Gimlin's men did not wake up until the Co-ops. sent four across in the sixth and took a lead of three counts. Swogger's three-base smash in the second frame had previously sent two men across. Clark's double and a pair of mistakes put two over for the locals in the fifth but up to this time and also for some time afterwards Barber had it on Gimlin's tightest batsmen. A couple of hum notes helped the Zion clerks in their eventful sixth but the chief answer to the question is four clean singles off Charlie Freine. The California boy was swatted quite freely during the remainder of the fracas but only one more counter came.

With three runs between them and a tied up score, Gimlin's men went into the seventh with the avowed intention of breaking it up. But hits didn't turn the trick. Only one small single showed up but, oh errors and homehead plays. Barber also assisted by issuing two passes and bearing "Dad" Clark.

Stolen bases were thicker than flies around a sugar bowl and the amusing part of the incident was that all this happened after two were down. Four errors helped some and the misery of players and fans was terminated when "Dad" Clark's three base hit swung after batting previously in the same round.

From this point the game became a farce in which Charlie Freine did a three-minute turn in pitching left handed, all of which averted the visitors and amused the fans. Johnny Rawlins and "Dad" Gimlin also took part by stealing second and third bases on the now thoroughly disgusted Barber, whose goat and pitching arm went out together. Gimlin's men let the ribbon salesmen down easy by sending only two across in the eighth.

HILL TO INVADE
IDAHO AND UTAH

Boise, Aug. 21.—The invasion of Harriman territory in the state of Idaho and the northwest by the Hill system, backed by almost unlimited capital of English origin, is now assured, if the information that has been placed in the hands of railroad men of Boise can be relied upon, and it is believed here that it can be. In brief, the Hill system has its plans made and proposes to actively start them in operation to place upon the map of the west the Butte, Boise & San Francisco railroad, which will run diagonally across the northwest from Butte southwest through Boise to the Golden Gate at San Francisco. No less than $70,000,000 is said to be behind the new road, part of which, or the first northern link, is the Gilmore & Pittsburgh railroad.

The board of directors said to be back of the Butte, Boise & San Francisco railroad, as received here by railroad men of prominence, is composed of the following galaxy of English financiers: E. A. Baund, former business associate of Cecil Rhodes and founder of the British South Africa company; F. J. Atkinson, accountant general of the United Provinces of India; F. R. Knollys, a brother to the secretary to King Edward; Lord McDonnell, late secretary for Ireland; Marquis of Winchester, Earl of Fitzwilliam and Lord Denbigh.

It is not an established fact that the plans of the company, which is said to be a Hill enterprise, has for its object the construction of a road which railroad men declare is one of the most feasible that has ever been attempted and although the outlay for building will amount into the millions the territory tapped will be probably as great if not greater than any other western trans-continental, due to the fact that it is comparatively new at the present time and once developed cannot be surpassed in the United States.

The pronounced activity in this state on the part of the Harriman system, the Oregon Short Line and its subsidiaries is said to indicate that the owners of this great system are aware of the plans made by Hill and his associates for the invasion of the new territory, the greater part of which has been and still is tributary to the Harriman lines. With this knowledge it is claimed that the rivalry between the two systems is but the fiercest of the kind and that no attempt to use unfair means to gain an advantage. Both systems are well established in the west. The construction of subsidiary lines is the strengthening plan of both roads as decided upon by the directorate, it is claimed here. Any advantage that either can gain through the acquiring of right of way into new territory and the construction of feeding lines prior to its rival, is said to be the campaign that will be carried out by both in the future.

The Butte, Boise & San Francisco company is said to have laid its plans well. The first link of the line, or the Gilmore & Pittsburgh, is already constructed. It is about eighty miles long and extends from Arnsdell, in Montana, to Salmon, the county seat of Lemhi county, in eastern Idaho. From Salmon the connecting link is to be laid into Butte. The surveys have been made and the right-of-way as well as terminal facilities, surveys have also been made up the Salmon river as well as up that stream. This was done to acquire the best possible field notes as to the right-of-way. The two surveys were called the north and south. The southern route, or the one surveyed south from Salmon up the Salmon river into Custer county to the hogback of the Sawtooth range, is said to have been abandoned for the northern route which follows the Salmon river north and west from Salmon through Idaho county to the south fork of the Salmon, following that stream into Idaho county to Proffitt and on south west to the head of Long valley in Boise county, passing the Payette lakes where it is claimed, it will parallel the Idaho Northern, now building an extension out of Emmett to Horseshoe Bend and on north to and into Long valley. The right-of-way continues directly south after Long valley is reached to Horseshoe Bend and to Boise where a turn to the west is made making connection with Caldwell. Entrance into eastern Oregon is made via Vale and the road then continues on to Lakeview, which is 150 miles from Vale, to Cal Hernal and on to San Francisco.

Route an Excellent One
The announcement that this road will also connect with the Pacific & Idaho Northern now constructed from Weiser to New Meadows, north through Washington and Adams counties, is said to make the route an excellent one, as well as the Hill people an excellent footing in the western and central part of this state. The fact that Long valley is to be tapped by the road is claimed to be the cause for as much activity on the part of the Harriman people in backing the extension of the Idaho Northern from Emmett into that section.

The Idaho Northern is actually engaged in building its extension. There are over 500 men and horses engaged on the right-of-way. All of the contracts have been let and the contractors are on the ground. The extension from Emmett to the Payette lakes is about 102 miles and a very rich territory is tapped. In addition to giving the Hill system a direct connection with California, the new road would, it is claimed, also give as close touch with the productive territory of Idaho as is now held by the Oregon Short Line. In order to connect with the Twin Falls territory, and to tap Utah at Ogden, it is said that this road would have to make an arrangement for the extension of the Kuhn road now running from Gooding to Wendell and Jerome to Boise and to extend on to the Utah territory. Railroad men here declare that they have been informed the Butte, Boise & San Francisco promoters will make a definite announcement in a short time governing the route that will be followed and when this is done it will verify the one they have outlined.

YOUTHS BEATEN UP
BY MELON THIEVES

Salt Lake, Aug. 21.—With a rib fractured on his left side near the hip, his nose broken and face pounded almost into a jelly, Elgin Roberts, 19 years old, son of G. W. Roberts, a prosperous ranchman of West Bountiful, is in a serious condition at his home as the result of attempting to trail a band of thirty young men, who, equipped with an express wagon and a picnic wagon, robbed the watermelon patches of P. P. Willey and Israel Call, justice of the peace and postmaster respectively of Bountiful, shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning.

In his attempt to run down the thieves, Roberts was accompanied by Otto Packnell, 23 years old, son of John Packnell, a Bountiful sheepman. He, too, was attacked and dealt a pair of black eyes. Lying forward on their faces, Roberts and Packnell were discovered at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning by Frank Smedley of Bountiful, who carried them to his ranch and called Dr. T. J. Howells.

Marshal John H. Burningham of Bountiful, who had been at work on an irrigation ditch near his land at Bountiful during the night, was informed of the melon patch robbery and the attack upon Roberts and Packnell shortly after 1:30 o'clock in the morning. Dropping his irrigation tools, Burningham made a hasty investigation. He learned that the gang was driving in the direction of Salt Lake and telephoned the police.

Loaded with patrolmen, the police ambulance was driven in the direction of Bountiful. They headed off the wagons a short distance beyond Beck's Hot Springs, holding them until the arrival of Marshal Burningham. Investigation revealed that those who had attacked Roberts and Packnell were on board the picnic wagon. This contained a dozen young men. Mounted Patrolman David Crowther and Patrolman C. C. Christensen took charge of the wagon and drove it to police headquarters. Marshal Burningham took charge of the other wagon and after taking the names and addresses of fifteen of those on board released them upon their own recognizance.

In the investigation that took place at police headquarters it was decided to enter the names of seven occupants of the picnic wagon on the police blotter. All reside on the west side. They told varied stories of the encounter with Roberts and Packnell. After they had promised to appear in Bountiful at such time as they may be summoned, they were permitted to go home without bail. They gave their names as Earl Evans, age 21; Sam Middlefield, 19; Bert Garrick, 20; Gene Phillips, 20; Frank Ray, 18; Albert Gilford, 28, and J. D. Raleigh, 30.

THREE SHOCKED BY BOLT.

American Fork, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Steve Clements and two of her small children had a narrow escape from being killed by lightning last night, during a heavy electrical storm that passed over this city. The lightning struck a tree close by the house, followed a wire clothes line fastened to the tree over to the barn, shattering the tree and knocking a pitchfork at the barn into splinters. Mrs. Clements and the children, in the house at the time, were knocked down by the shock and were in a dazed condition for a few minutes.
